Giant Steamer Titanic Strikes an Iceberg.

Was the Initial Trip of Worlds Largest Steamer.

Cape Race, N. F., April 16 -A wireless message tonight from Captain Haddock, of the steamers Olympic, relayed by the Celtric, reads as follows:

Please allay rumor that the Virginian has any of the Titantic's passengers Neither has the Tunisan. I believe that the only survivors are on the Carpathia The second, third, fourth, and fifth officers, and the second Marconi operator are the only officers reported saved.

New York, April 16 .- Waiting for wire less reports from the grave of the Titantic and the 1,300 passengers who went down with her, the heartsore friends and relatives turned away in despair tonight when it was given out that the Government boats sent out to rely messa ges from the Capathia, would not be able to get within the wireless zone until late tomorrow.

No one seems to feel that there is any hope for any of the passengers except the 868 said to be aboard the Carpathia unless some passing steamer should accidentally rescue some of those might be affoat on wreckage.

FAINT HOPE LEFT FOR MISSING. Only a faint hope remains tonight that any of the 1,302 passengers and craw who have been missing since the giant Titanic sank has been picked up transatlantic liners The 868 survivors rescued from lifeboats by the Cunarder Carpathia, now on her way to this city, are the only known saved.

The brief and meagre wireless messa ges that came to hand today practically extinguished hope that some of the illfated passengers may have been picked an at sea by the steamships Virginian and Parisian of the Allan Line. Both of these steamers set word that they had none of the Titantic's survivors on been received by wireless up to 4:30 o'clock. The Carpathla evidently was evidently out of wireless range toward noon, for after that efforts to reach her with wireless communications were futile and a score or more of message from the Cunard Company and other sources were unanswered.

At 5 o'clock this afternoon Vive President Franklin, of the White Star Line, said that, so far as he knew, the Olympic was still standing by the Carpathia to rely wireless messages. He added that he had received no word from the Olympic since 9_o'clock this morning and had been unable to get either the Carpathia or the Olympic by wireless. WILL AVOID NORTHERN ROUTE.

Mr Franklin said also that the steam ship companies crossing the Atlantic had enteded into an agreement to abar don the short Northern route in favor of the Southern route, as long as icebergs were reported in the pathway of the former course.

The dispatch from Montreal saying that hope was still entertained there that the Parisian might have aboard some of the Titanic's survivors, Mr. Franklin characterized as "a ridiculous report. He added "that, in my opinion, neithe the Parisian nor the Virginian has any survivors aboard."

The Titanic was insured for $5,000,000, Mr. Franklin said. On the ship, he added, the White Star Line would lose abou $3,000,000, "This will be the smallest part of our loss," he added.

Captain Rostron, of the Carpathia, in his last wireless report to the Cunard Company stated that his vessel was proceeding slowly through a field of tee to this port.

NAVAL CRUISERS TO RESCUE President Taft late this afternoon d cted the Secretary of the Navy to order the scout cruisers Salem and Chester to the scene at once from Hampton Roads to meet the Carpathia and send plete list of the Titanic's survivors. The Chester was caught by wireless about by 4 o'clock was steaming northward, at before that date. 20 knots an hour, aiming to get as quick ly as possible into touch with steamers DR. J. W. having news bearing on the disaster. Two revenue cutters were also notified to stand in readiness to proceed to the Carpathia if necessary. In the event that the Salem had not sufficient coal. instructions were given to dispatch the cruiser North Carolina instead.

A possible chance of obtaining news bearing upon the disaster developed early this evening when the Leyland liner California came into the zones of wireless communication with Sable Island The California was reported at the scene of the disaster shortly after the Titanic went down and was thought probable that she would have valuable information to communicate.

Capt Rostron, of the Carpathia has been instructed to send full details of the sinking of the Titanic.

Government Warned that American Life and Property are to be Safely Guarded.

Washington, D C., April 14.-Warning was issued today by the United States to the Mexican Government, as well as to General Pascual Orozco, chief of the revolutionary forces, that "It expects and must demand that American life and property within the Republic of Mexico be justly and adequately protected, and that this Government must hold Mexico and the Mexican people responsible for all wanton or illegal acts sacrificing or endangering Amrican lif or damaging Amrican property, or interests."

The attitude of the United States, as expressed to both the Federal and rebel authorities is that any maltreatment of American citizens "will be deeply resented by the American Government and people, and must be fully answered for by the Mexican people."

WILSON'S STATEMENT.

Acting Secretary Huntington Wilson of the State Department, who today issued special instructions to Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson, at Mexico City, an Marion Letcher, American Consul at Chihuahua, authorized the statem that intervention was not contemplated by the United States.

Ambassador Wilson was ordered to ommunicate at once the views of the United States to the Mexican Minister for Foreign Affairs, and a copy of his in structions was likewise sent to Marion Letcher, American Consul at Chihuahua, General Orozco. Orozco recently refused to recognize

Mr Letcher as the American Consular representative, because the United States withheld recognition of the rebel cause.

Though declining to justify participation by Americans on either side of the revolution, the United States expressly stipulates that American compatants, when taken prisoner, must be given humane treatment in accordance with the international rules of war.

The correspondence made public night is admittedly the strongest demand the United States is known to have made upon Mexico for respectful treatnent of Americans as well as other foreigners, and declares that a continua tion of illegal acts is tending "to difficulties and obligations, which it is to the interest of all true Mexican patriots, as it is the desire of the United States, to avoid."

INSTRUCTIONS ARE GIVEN. The instructions to Ambassador Wil-

son, sent by telegraph today, were as follows: "You will immediately communicate the following to the Minister for Foreign Affairs. "The enormous destruction constantly increasing of valuable American properties in the course of the present unfortunate disturbance; the taking of American life contrary to the principles governing such matters an...ng all civilized nations; the increasing dangers to which all American citizens in Mexico are subjected; and, the seemingly possible indefinite continuance of this unfortunate situation compel the Government of the United States to give notice that it expects and must demand that American life and property within the republic of Mexico must be justly and adequately protecter, and that this government must hold Mexico and the Mexican people responsible for all wanton or illegal acts sacrificing or endanger ing American life or damaging American property or interest there situated."

VULTURE'S CLAW" BY REV. C. F. WIMBERLY, OF MADISONVILLE, KY.

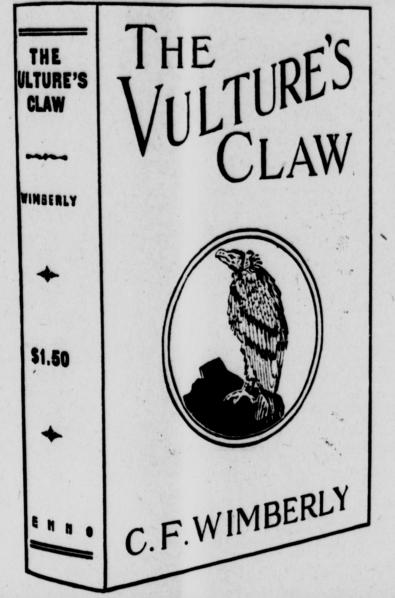

"The Vulture's Claw" is an absorbingly interesting story, with a deep religious moral. The story takes its name from a miserly, grasping hypocrite whose left hand is deformed into the shape of a claw and his character is so much like a vulture that the title of the book is peculiarly apt. Mr. Wimberly introduces more than a dozen interesting characters and a multiplicity of situations which he handles with a master hand. His descriptive work is nothing short of genius. Most of the action takes place in the remote Ozark mountains and much of it hangs upon the coming into the mountains of a school mar'm who infuses new life and ambition into the community; and in coming of a Methodist minister with whose beautiful character the reader readily falls in love. "The Vulture's Claw" is a remarkable story of hardship depicting the unfavorable environments of remote mountain sections; of the influence of one or two strong personalities upon the lives of many people, and through every page runs a double romance which absorbs the interest of the reader.

World Convention Scheduled to Meet in Louisville Oct. 15-22.

The current issue of the official year book of the Disciples of Christ contains some very interesting information relative to the growth and captivities of this particular religious denomination.

Official figures from all sources show that on December 31, 1911, this body had 11,280 active churches, with an aggregate membership of 1,375,000, making it rank fourth among the Protestant bodies o the Anglo-Saxon race in America and sixth among all the Christian bodies.

In comparing the growth of the Disciples with that of the ten other leading religious bodies, the compilers the Year Book have graded the list ac cording to the numeral strength and gain of each denomination: Roman Cath olic, Methodist Episcopal, Regular Baptist Church South, Regular Baptist Colored, Methodist Episcopal South, Disciples of Christ, Presbyterian North, Regular Baptist North, Protestant Episcopal, Lutheran Synodical Conference, Congrega

It also shows that in moving up from the eighth to the sixth place they passed the Presbyterians and Regular Baptists, the largest gain for the year being 110,-000 made by the Catholic bodies; Methodist coming next.

But, if taken in single religious bo dies, they would stand in gains in the following order: Roman Catholic 110,000; Disciples of Christ, 80,759; Regular Baptist South, 49,749; African Methodist Episcopal, 47,874; Cumberland Presbyterian, 40,000; Lutheran Synodical Conference, 397; Regular Baptist Colored, 34.589; Methodist Episcopal South, 32, 000; Greek Othordox Church, 30,00; Methodist Episcopal Church, 26,949.

HAPTER XVIII.

It was mid-afternoon of a sultry day. No air stirred. The Panjnab was coaling at Port Said.

O'Rourke eyed the vessel with disfavor from the shore; then dropped into a harbor dinghy, ensconced himself at the tiller-ropes, and caused himself, with his luggage and his man-servant, to be conveyed alongside the steamer.

Near the gangway he was held back; another boat had forestalled him, another passenger was shipping for the East. O'Rourke was interested

He saw a woman, a slight, trim figure becomingly attired in white, with a veil about her head, leave the boat and mount the gangway steps with a springy, youthful step, a cheerful and positive air, a certain but indefinable calm of self-possession. At the top she paused, turned, looked down, watching the transfer of her luggage and her maid. . . . From sundry intangible indications O'Rourke assumed the second woman's figure to be the lady's maid. And so did Danny. The one eyed the mistress, the other her servant, both with interest. . .

The woman on deck threw back her veil. She seemed to promise uncommon beauty of the English type, fullcolored and of classic mold. . . The Irishman was much too far away to be certain, but he fancied that her gaze wandered toward him and-but this, of course, was only imagination -that she started slightly.

At all events, she was quick to drop the veil and turn away. Her maid joining her, both vanished beneath the canvas awnings. The boat that had brought her sheered off, and O'Rourke "Sure, yer honor. . . . Aw, yer was permitted to board the Panjnab. honor! . . . "Tis mesilf meant no himself, as he trod those decks; it saw him definitely started on his way to the East.

O'Rourke roused upon his elbow and peered out of the port of his stateroom. The steamer was plowing through the Bitter Lakes. He saw a string of buoys, a width of water like a jade, a vista of sand, flat, gray,

"Damn . . ." said he listlessly. He slipped down again upon his back, panted, and wiped his brow.

Danny, recognizing that he was not expected to respond, and being a young man remarkably acute to diaghis master's moods, prudently refrained from comment. He sat hunched up on a cabin stool, his intensely red, bullet-shaped head bent low over a bit of chamois skin, which he was sewing into a rough, sturdy bag.

As the sun dipped beneath the rim of the horizon, a pleasant shadow invaded the statercom, until that moment blood-red with its level rays.

And Danny straightened up, dropping thimble and thread, announcing the completion of his needlework by a brief, contented: "There!"

O'Rourke glanced at the article dangling from his valet's fingers, and slammed the book against the bulk-head at the foot of his berth.

"Finished, is it?" he exclaimed. Faith, 'tis about time, ye lazy good-

Danny smiled ferenely. "And a good job, too, sor," said he proudly. "M'anin' no onrespect to yer honor," he added hastily.

O'Rourke took the subject of discussion in his fingers and examined it searchingly.

"'Twill do," he announced. "'Twill serve its purpose, if no more. Lay out me evening clothes now." He stood up, stopping to stare through the port. "Good enough," he com-mented on what he discovered without; "'tis passing Suez we are this blessed minute. Praises be, we caught a boat that doesn't stop here.'

Danny scratched an ankle thought fully. "Yiss, yer honor," he assented dublous. "But, for all that, phwat's to hinder annywan from boordin' us be boat, if they sh'u'd want to?"

O'Rourke turned and eyed the man keenly. "'Tis a great head ye have on your shoulders, Danny," he said. netimes ye betray almost canine intilligence. I'm be way of having hopes of ye. Now get ye on deck and watch to see who does come aboard, if anyone, and report to me."

"Yiss, yer honor."

"Yiss, yer honor."

"Yiss, yer honor."

O'Rourke bolted the door after Danny and assured himself that the keyhole was properly wadded, that no crack existed through which his movements might be observed from the gangway. Shrugging his broad shoulders he returned to the seat vacated by his valet and thrust a hand beneath the coat of his pajamas, withdrawing it a moment later, fingers tightly wrapped about a rather bulky object.

And the Pool of Flame lay glitter-ing and stabbing his eyes with shafts of blood-red light.

But at length, slipping the ruby into the new receptacle and drawing the lanyard tight about its puckered throat, he stood up and threw the loop over his head, permitting the bag with its precious contents to fall beneath the folds of his jacket; and, shaking off the sober mood inspired in him by the study of the stone, rang for a steward, to whom, when he responded, he entrusted a summons for Danny-"if so be it we're clear of Suez."

In the course of five minutes or so Danny himself tapped on the door and presented to his master a beaming

"Divvle a sowl!" he announced triumphantly. "Sure, 'tis ourselves have given thim the slip entirely!"

He fished a brand new kit-box from beneath the berth and, opening it, be-ban to lay out O'Rourke's clothing. His master indulged in a sigh of relief. "Then no boat put off to us at all?" he questioned indifferently.

"Only wan," replied the servant,
"and thot wid no wan in ut but a nay-

With an exasperated gesture O'Rourke released the boy. "'Tis too much for me ye are," he said helplessly. "Now and again I believe ye have the makings of a man in ye, and a jade, a vista of sand, flat, gray, then ye go off and play the fool! If patched with gray-green desert shrub, I didn't believe ye a pure simpleton bounded only by the horizon. . . . with not an ounce of mischief in your body, I'd take that out of your worth-less hide. #### How to Invest One's Fortune.

A gentleman who, according to his own statement, recently came into $100,-000 left by an eccentric but industrious uncle, and decided to advertise for disinterested advice as to the manner of its investment, writes a brief article in the Strand Magizine on the results of his unusual procedure.

The advertisement was inserted in a New York newspaper. Two days later he strolled down to learn if there were any answers. They were. The clerk in the department handed out six bulky packages, 600-odd letters in all,lent him a cord to tie them together and confidentially advised him to get a handcart. He spent a whole day reading them. but to his regret found that there were practically no disinterested writers and very few suggestions that looked reasonably safe and practical. One of the most earnest replies, for instance, was from an inventor who had an idea that, he said, would unquestionably net $50,-000. Only $100 would float the scheme and the investor would receive half of

Then there was a physician, an English specialist of note, who needed $2,000 or $3,000 to equip offices in New York. He was a specialist on women's troubles and he had no doubt, in view of the debilitated condition of the sex in America, he would soon be able to guarantee the obliging lender of the amount above mentioned very handsome dividends.

The advertiser was particularly struck with the enthusiasm of one correspondent who wanted him to invest the entire amount in a wonderful self-soaping washboard. This washboard, according to the correspondent, saved the washer from the disagreeable necessity of handling the soap, cut down the time of washing fully one-fifth, saved half the soap, gave superior results, and cost no more to manufacture than the ordinary

When he came to a post card from Helene,a lady who asked him to reply in the personal column of a certain newspaper, the thought for a moment that he had certainly found a disinterested adviser. Helene wrote as follows:

Be satisfied with your $100,000 and don't speculate. If you must have something to do, buy income property and take care of it yourself. If you have never traveled place your money out on mortgage and travel. If single get married and let some good woman enjoy your fortune with you. If I were better acquainted could give you more advice. Above all. don't lose your money. Answer by personal in tomorrow's paper. After thinking it over a bit, however he concluded that even she had an eye to securing a personal share in the estate left by his uncle. The expressed desire for a further acquaintance left small doubt on that point. Helene wanted either to marry him or be his personal palmist and fortune tller. To sum up, the gentleman says that he received offers to run plays, mount operas, finance dressmakers, start amusement parlors, speculate in every mining and industrial scheme in the country, and even to help start a new religion. All of which, for reasons that fully declined to entertain. He concludes with the statement that in the end he took no one's advice, but invested his money according to his own discretion. Which was certainly wise, if the only source of advice he had was the queer crew that answered his queel advertisement.-Inter-Ocean.

It is the only remedy life, from the gale of a single fake article which never fails. of a medical character to a prodigious mining scheme, well figured out on paper and existing only in the mind of the promoter.

BIG COMMERCIAL HELP.

The crusade conducted by Mr. Hitchcock against these fakers hast been a grea commercial help to the country. In one case, a single fraud operator or combinations of operators manipulating railroads bills of lading and acting as agents for insurance companies were able to obtain $2,500,000 from foreign cotton buyers and at the same time destroyed the credit and confidence in the mediums of realizing upon the offering of cotton in the market This was done through bogus bills of lading sent through the medium of the United States mails.

These wealthy fraud artists, Mr. Hitchcock says, invest their money in legitimate enterprises and many of them consequently become promoters of banks, owners of manufacturing plants and ohetr wealthy and influential organizations. Because of their pos!tion and high station in life, it is a difficult matter to convict them, as their resources appear to be unlimited . PROMOTERS ARRESTED.

"during the past year more than a regiment of these promoters have been taken into custody by the United States Government, their business disrupted and nearly 200 of them convicted within six months on charges of fraud. Among this number are some eight or ten millionaires who are serving terms of imprisonment in Federal peniten-

"Heretofore," continued Mr. Hitchcock, "it has been the policy of the Postoffice Department to utilize what is known as the fraud order, directign the postmasters to refuse to deliver mail addressed to these illegitimate concerns The order must be applicable to some pecial organization or individual Immediately upon the issuance of the order the enterprising schemer recognizes the same scheme under a new name, uses, with a slight change, practically the same literature, retains the old mailing at the same old stand.

DRIVEN OUT OF BUSINESS.

"The crusade conducted by the department against the operators has been vigorously pursued and has resulted in scattering a large number of the smaller operators, who usually become frightened at the attitude of the Postoffice Department. These smaller people have been driven out of business entirely.

Mr. Hitchcock gives the public press a great deal of credit in running the "fakers" to earth. The publicity of the methods employed by the shrewd schemers; he says, has opened the eyes of the American people to such an extent that Every Year Declares Post the officers of the Postoffice Department report that hundreds of the promoters have voluntarily closed their places of business and departed for palces unknown.

A WOMAN'S GOOD LOOKS

Depend on her general health and freedom from pain. Many a woman looks old before her time because of those irregularities which are essentially feminine. Starting from early womanhood, she suffers from frequently recurring derangements that upset her womanly health. If she be beautiful she grows into that mellow age without wrinkles and crowfeet about the eyes or the blue circles underneath. age without wrinkles and crowfeet about the eyes or the blue circles underlied. It is invariably the rule that such women suffer little, or not at all, from womanly derangements which sap the health and leave in the face the tell-tale story of pain and suffering. Dr.R.V. Pierce, the famous specialist in the discoust of women, found a prescription in his carly practice that soothed the organism peculiar to woman-hood—oiled the machinery, as it were, of the human system—and helped the woman to pass those painful periods that scar-lined and aged her lace. This remedy became the well-known Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that has benefited thousands of women and saved them from misery and suffering at different periods in life.

MRS. HARKELY E. PIERCE, of 244 Bright Street, Sarnia, Ont., writes:

"I am now a well weman after suffering for three years and doctoring with several different dectors, each one saying it was something different, and the last one, after putting me through a thorough examination, and I was suffering from a growth, which, in time, would result in cancer, and said I would not live more than two years if not operated upon right away. I became hop-lessly discouraged but would not consent to the operation as I was too weak and too much afraid, but at last, through the advice of a friend, I tried Dr. Pierce's medicines, and after using two bottles of the Favorite Prescription' I immediately feit a change. I also used two boxes of Healing Suppositories' and eight boxes of 'Lotion Tablets,' and can safely praise the name of Dr. Pierce's medicines to all who suffer from any female disease, for these medicines are all they are claimed to be, and I hope will help others as they have helped me."

Press on Saturday will be interesting to those watching the Republican Pres idential race It gives some facts con cerning Mr. Taft's race, and ends by saying that "if Col. Roosevelt away with a majority of the Pennsylvan delegates, right then and ther will b la deelgates, right then and there will be the lastt expiring gasp of the candidacy of Mr. Taft."

It might be added that Col. Roosevelt made a complete sweep of Pennsylvania, Saturday in the Presidential primary The editorial from the Press follows:

If all Republican Pennsylvania, which holds its primaries to-day, the party the land would not need to feel the the rival candidacies of Mr. Taft and so overwhelmingly Republican that it The Taft steam roller might do the velt followers in Pennsylvania, and lose the Keystone State. Or the Colonel might literally use the Big Stick at the primaries to club Taft men away from the polls and in convention to crack the skulls of Taft delegates, and yet, if Mr. Roosevelt were nominated, there would be little fear of Pennsylvania going Demo-

Pennsylvania is the one State in the Union that seems absolutely sure to give its Electoral College vote to the Republican candidate, under any circumstances whatsoever. lieve that even Nicholas Murray Butler, as the Republican candidate President, could carry Pennsylvania, though it is certain that he could not carry a single other State in

But, in the whole United States there is only one Pennsylvania. So far as concerns the effect upon that State itself-the effect at the polls day will mean little or nothting. Mr Taft. Never yet in his canvas for the nomination has Mr. Taft beer there was, in truth, no primary he has submitted his appeal for delegates to the voters of his party in andidacy has suffered utter and dumfounding collapse.

If Colonel Roosevelt gets away with anything at all in Pennsylvania it will be further damage to the weak and weakening candidacy of Mr. Taft. If Colonel Roosevelt gets away with a half or even a quarter of tthe Pennsylvania delegates, under all the circumstances, it will be a stunning blow to the candidacy of Mr. Taft. ORGANIZATION MAY WIN.

It was said by a prominent member of the State Committee tonight that some of the Roosevelt delegates elected to the State convention are regular organization men who, while voting for Roosevelt delegates, will still stand by the State organization.

Some of the organization leaders refrained from personally entering the primary as candidates for district delegates as it had been expected they would be selected as delegates-at-large. Among those understood to have been looked upon as the likely delegates were Senator Penrose and Oliver, Gov Tener, Secreeary of State Robert McAfee and State Senator James P. McNichol, leader of the party organization in Philadelphia,

The vote poiled was light. In some districts it did not go much over fifty per cent of the vote at the last general election. Col. Do not fed fresh meat too freely to chickens as it is liable to cause diarrhea troubles. Three or four feedings a week should be sufficient. A good plan s to hang up a piece of meat for them to pick at.

Nests for setters should be placed in a quiet place, where the birds will not be molested or suit the convenience of the one who attends the hens, but the arrangement of the boxes in tiers. the first one about level with the floor, is an arrangement most commonly adopt-

Where hens are known to be restless and need some coaxing to get used to sitting with regularity, it is a good practice to first set them on nest eggs placing the eggs to be hatched under them when they have shown their intention of sticking to their job.

If four to six hens are set at one time of a week, and if not running a large per cent. fertile, may be divided among a sufficient number of brooders to cover them and the other hens reset on new eggs.

Give each hen a thorough dusting beting her. Any good brand of insect powders will do. Work the powder well into her feathers and under her wings down to the skin. This prevents the increase of vermin, which often makes an other-wise good brooder restless and will impregnate the nest so with lice that when the chicks are hatched, they ecome covered with the vermin before they can be removed, which often results in their death. It is also well to dust the hens a second time just before the chicks hatch

A dust bath should also be provided for the sitters to dust in when they come is well to remove sitters at regular periods if they show a tendency to remain on the nest too long at a time.

Little chick require no food for the first twenty-four hours, at least. Upor removing them to the brood coop, about thirty-six hours after they are hatched is a good time to first feed them.

Always keep the brooders and brood coops clean. Cleanliness, pure, fresh air and plenty of wholesome food are the main essentials to the raising of chicks until they can forage for themselves.

The care of chicks in brooders is comparatively a simple matter. The essentials are to keep the chicks comfortable, contented, well fed and happy. WE WILL GIVE AWAY

6 EVER BLOOMING ROSE BUSHES FRI

We have six well rooted, everblooming rose plants to give away to every woman who reads this advertisement. Owing to the excessive moisture in the ground this spring, these plants will, with ordinary care, grow rapidly and begin to bloom early this summer.

The Varieties Offered.

The varieties are especially selected to please the grower and to insure permanent and satisfactory growth. They

THE ETOILE DE FRANCE. A clean, rich velvety , a giant in nardiness and sturdiness. The growth is luxuriant and lusty with great masses of deep colored roses blooming all summer.

MY MARYLAND. One of the most exquisite of all pink roses. Its flowers have an indescribable charm, being composed of thick, heavy petals unsurpassed in elegance of form and deepening in shade as the flower expands—something that can be said of very few pink roses. Its fragrance is delightful and lasting.

KAISER IN AUGUSTA VICTORIA. A most beautiful creamy white rose. It is hardy, vigorous and practically free from disease. The flowers are double and grandly set on long, stiff stems and appear continuously all summer, STOILE DE LYON. Absolutely the most perfect yellow rose in the market to-day. It blooms in profusion, sending forth a deep golden yellow bloom that is profuse and lasting with an exquisite fragrance.

CLOTHILDE SOUPERT. During the hottest month of summer, when other plants show a withered sickly condition, this rose continues to produce its beautiful white, pink tinted flowers, which always appear fresh and sweet.

CRIMSON RAMBLER. One of the most charming roses roses ever offered to the trade. This is the first crimson rambler that can really and truthfully be called an "ever bloomer." The flowers are a deep brilliant crimson, measuring from one to two inches in diameter and produced in great clusters. Nothing like it has ever been offered before.
